The Local Education Advancement Program helps improve the quality of education in rural indigenous schools in Guatemala. So far, we have started helping one school, the elementary school in the village of Tzuncoc in Alta Verapaz, Guatemala. This year we brought 994 notebooks, 32 boxes of pencils, 372 erasers, and 139 boxes of colored pencils to the school, among many more supplies. The goal is for rural indigenous children to have access to good quality education, tailored to their specific needs, in their local schools.

The Community Support Fund helps families meet their basic needs during times of emergency. This year, that emergency was COVID-19. We provided 5 weeks of food to every family in 4 villages in Alta Verapaz, Guatemala for a total of 486 households. The goal is for families to have food security so hunger does not interfere with their children's ability to study and to alleviate the economic pressure that might cause some families to send their children to work instead of study.

As described earlier in Part III Statement of Program Service Accomplishments, this program brings resources, such as school supplies and educational materials, to local schools in Guatemala with the goal of improving the quality of local education available to rural students. This is a long-term program and will be one of our main focuses moving forwards.

Local Education Advancement
Program

As described earlier in Part III Statement of Program Service Accomplishments, the Community Support Fund is a program to help families meet basic needs in times of emergency so that their children can better focus on studying. Once the current emergency, COVID-19, is no longer greatly affecting the communities we serve, we will stop running this program until it is needed for a later emergency.
